P&K EQUIPMENT CELEBRATES 40 YEARS OF GROWTH AND GREEN

On Saturday, March 29th, P&K Equipment marked a major milestone—40 years of business and a recent expansion—with a ribbon cutting hosted by the Kingfisher Chamber of Commerce. In a perfectly fitting touch, Chamber Director Shauna Rupp selected a John Deere green ribbon for the occasion. The story of P&K Equipment begins right here in Kingfisher in 1985, with a man named Dr. Barry Pollard. A true son of rural Oklahoma, Barry grew up on a farm near Hennessey and has always carried a deep love for agriculture.

After graduating from Oklahoma State University in 1973 and the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine in 1977, Dr. Pollard opened his own neurosurgery practice in Enid in 1982. But that wasn't enough for this multi-talented man—just a few years later, he took a leap of faith and purchased a local John Deere dealership in Kingfisher that had come up for sale.

He couldn't have done it without his business partner Wendell Kirtley—the “K” in P&K Equipment. The company survived the tough ag economy of the 1980s, and soon expanded. When Wendell retired, Barry saw no reason to change the name—he simply adapted it to mean Pollard & Kids, keeping the P&K spirit alive while bringing the next generation into the fold.

Today, P&K Equipment independently owns and operates 32 John Deere dealerships across Oklahoma, Arkansas, Iowa, and Illinois, serving thousands of farmers with trusted equipment and deep roots in the communities they call home. Congratulations to Dr. Barry Pollard and the entire P&K family on 40 years of service, success, and staying true to your roots. Your investment in Kingfisher and beyond has not only grown crops—it's grown careers, communities, and futures. Here's to the next 40!

WHO'S CHUCK AND WHY DOES HE HAVE A WAGON?

by AAK Maitland Pickle

With the Chisholm's Chuck Wagon Gathering last weekend, it dawned on me that a lot of people might not know what a chuck wagon is. You might be surprised to learn that Chuck isn't a real person, and the wagon doesn't belong to him. A "chuckwagon" is a horse-drawn wagon that served as a mobile kitchen during cattle drives and on the prairies of the U.S. and Canada, similar to a very early food truck. The concept originated in 1866 when Texas farmer Charles Goodnight created it by combining a Civil War surplus wagon with a Studebaker manufactured covered wagon to feed cowboys on long journeys. He added a "chuck box" for storage and a hinged lid that served as a flat working surface, along with accessories for water and firewood. Common chuckwagon food included baked beans, salted meats, coffee, and sourdough biscuits. Now you know about chuckwagons and can join in on next year's festivities at The Chisholm on March 28th, 2026.

THE COWBOYS

Cowboys came from diverse backgrounds. Typically drawn from lower social classes, cowboys could be vaqueros, Tejanos, former slaves, Indians, and more. They typically wore wide brimmed hats to protect them from the sun and chaps to protect their legs from thorns and brush. Tall boots with riding heels were a must and were often paired with spurs while in the saddle. Around their neck you would find a brightly colored wild rag used to protect them from dust among other things.

TRANSITIONS

A STEP BACK IN HISTORY

by Bonny Flesher

Saturday, March 29th I wandered over to The Chisholm with my camera in tow. They were having their annual Chuck Wagon Gathering. For myself, it is a time to step back in time sampling all the great food and smelling the aromas, hearing music, watching gunfights, and more! There was something for all ages. To start I ran into Maitland with AAK, dressed for work with her long lens camera in tow to get some

After Covid visiting seemed a bit more meaningful. Saturday was a perfect setting.

As Maitland and I indulged in our samplings of beans and biscuits we found out our host was from Texas. They came for a love of history. As I separated from Maitland with the promise of taking pictures I ran into Chris Mendez. Chris is a collection specialist for the museum. In our event shots. Of course, the girl needs rollerblades because this wasn't her only event to cover. I explained I was there to take pictures for my art and would be glad to share. She was off to another event in Maitland fashion with a promise to return to film some of the day's happenings. Stay tuned when Angie in the office does her magic, I'm sure it will be on AAK. It's a process to get everyone's work from the events to you whether it's on social media or in paper form.

conversation, I asked Chris about the mystery critter that had snuck in the upstairs of the Seay Mansion the day before. He said he tried to slide his cellphone camera inside the cabinet to verify the mystery noise but someone or something goosed him. If you were there you would notice the stairs roped off. Not sure if it was to keep any unsuspected visitors from having an encounter or maybe to keep the mysterious noise from coming downstairs. Being in the mansion over the years there's always been talk of ghosts. Not sure if the situation needed animal control or someone for paranormal activities. Either way, it didn't deter the activities downstairs!

I ran into Laura Callaham; we discussed our love for growing tomatoes and eating them straight from the plant, just struggling to get the plants to produce the tasty goodness. I met Laura's parents; her dad was in his happy place taking in all the festivities. Blake is Laura's husband and happened to be my boss when I worked at Pioneer Telephone. I had to ask Blake if he missed me yet. I had to give him a hard time but at the end of the day, we both knew the passion we shared for our jobs and taking care of our customers. I also ran into Mike, who has had connections with Pioneer for many years. He introduced me to his son and grandson, which brought up memories of Mike walking into our Pioneer office one day with a bit of a pale face and showing signs of shock. He and his wife Ginny had just found out they were expecting quadruplets.

As much as I enjoyed my visits with new and old friends, there was one encounter that stole my heart. My little four-year-old friend named Joe was working diligently coloring his horse's heads. There was a table for the littles to create their stick horses. They had to color the left and right sides of a horse's head. I mention left and right because some of the adults attending the booth would try to put together two left or right heads! Anyway, there were a few bloopers that occurred. Even though Joe's mom told me he was a chatterbox at home, I saw him as a man who had few words. His face said it all while taking in all the adventures around him. I had to ask Joe if he was coloring a unicorn or a horse. Without saying a word, Joe's face told me horses are real, unicorns are not, and I may be a bit crazy!

After all the food sampling and meeting new people, as well as reconnecting with a few, my camera was put away. I drove by the mansion the next morning. All the chuck wagons were gone and the smell of food had disappeared. The lawn was quiet again with the mansion shadowing it. As I drove by, I couldn't help but feel like someone was watching from the second floor...

Happily Ever After

Love stories have a way of unfolding in the most unexpected ways, and for Jacob Conrady and Sara Del La Torre, that couldn't be more true. Both living and growing up in the same town they knew of each other but didn't officially meet until Sara's junior year of high school. Introduced through a mutual friend, they quickly became friends, unaware that this was just the beginning of something much greater.

Fast forward to January 2022, when Sara started working at Strange Brew. A few months into the job, she was invited on a supply run to Enid and Oklahoma City with Jacob who's the owner, his brother Lucas, and his best friend Trent. That trip turned out to be the start of an inseparable friendship among all four. Come that following fall, Jacob and Sara grew even closer. On February 9, 2023, he finally asked her to be his girlfriend. They spent their days enjoying lunch dates, playing video games, binge-watching TV shows, and sneaking off to the movie theater just to bring home some of their favorite popcorn. Their love grew quickly, and with every passing day, it became more evident that they had found something truly special in each other.

Then came the most beautiful proposal. Sara's family takes a trip to the beach every year and in the summer of 2024, Jacob tagged along. A week before they left, they planned for family pictures on the beach. Sara insisted on waiting until later in the week for a better tan, but everyone else was set on doing it early. Little did Sara know, Jacob had a very good reason for the timing. He didn't want to be sunburned when he popped the question! On July 21, as the sun set perfectly over the water, Jacob led Sara on a short walk along the shoreline while her family worked on a surprise set-up behind them. She was exhausted and ready to turn back, but when they finally returned, Sara saw it. A heart drawn in the sand, candles lining the edges, fresh rose petals filling the center, and glowing letters spelling out "Marry Me." It was breathtaking, and of course, she said yes!

They originally planned for a big wedding in the spring of 2026, but as time passed, they realized they just couldn't wait any longer! One November night in 2024, while talking, they made a last-minute decision to elope. The very next day, they set the date for the following week and excitedly told family and friends. Shopping for attire was an adventure, to say the least. Jacob found his suit almost instantly, but Sara struggled to find the perfect dress. Eventually, she took a chance on an online final-sale gown, and thankfully, it was exactly what Sara had hoped for! On November 15th they eloped in Bricktown. The ceremony was lighthearted with the officiant cracking jokes before even getting started! Afterward, they took beautiful photos at the Botanical Gardens and celebrated with their loved ones at The Old Spaghetti Factory. The two celebrated their union while watching the Mike Tyson vs. Jake Paul fight back at home. What an unforgettable twist to an already incredible day!

Though they've officially tied the knot, their story isn't done. The newlyweds still plan to have their big wedding in 2026, allowing for more of their family and friends to witness their special day. While they haven't started much of the planning yet, they know it will be a beautiful celebration of the love they've built together. Congratulations to the Conrads!

THE TEACHER'S PATH

Mrs. Sydnee Gifford 5th Grade English Teacher

Growing up in rural Oklahoma, Sydnee (Gerken) Gifford has always had a deep connection to agriculture. From working on her family's farm to participating in FFA to showing livestock. A 2016 Kingfisher High School graduate, Sydnee attended Butler Community College in El Dorado, Kansas on a Livestock Judging scholarship. After obtaining her associate degree in 2018 she attended Oklahoma State University receiving a bachelor's degree in Animal Science in December of 2020. Sydnee also has a minor in Agricultural Business and Economics. You would think her path seemed destined for the agricultural industry. However, life had a way of leading her down an unexpected, yet fulfilling, road—education.

Her teaching journey began as a substitute teacher. The gig was meant to be temporary, a way to contribute while she determined her long-term career. After spending days and days in classrooms she felt the Lord tugging on her heartstrings. It was a calling, a spiritual nudge, that she could not ignore. Teaching is where she is meant to be, at least for the time being.

Taking a leap of faith, Sydnee pursued becoming an educator and joined the Kingfisher Upper Elementary staff this past fall as the 5th-grade English teacher. With the help of a supportive team of teachers, and administrative leaders, she has been able to navigate the ups and downs that come with teaching, especially your first year.

One of Sydnee's favorite teaching moments thus far is introducing her students to a special guest. A calf they affectionately named Jeff Jojo. What began as a simple introduction to animal care quickly evolved into a hands-on learning experience, blending her love for agriculture with her newfound passion for teaching. The students not only learned about responsibility and science but also developed a curiosity that extends beyond the classroom.

Outside of teaching, Sydnee enjoys a life deeply rooted in her family and agricultural passions. She and her husband, Ryan, whom she married in May 2024, spend their free time helping with farm work, setting up greenhouses, and watching sports and rodeos. Though she has not always been a sports fan, Ryan's enthusiasm has rubbed off on her, making game nights a new shared joy.

Sydnee currently helps with the afterschool program "STARS" and plans to become more involved this summer. She also intends to pursue alternative certification to become a full-fledged teacher. As the year goes on it has become apparent that teaching is not merely a job but a path she was meant to walk, a journey that had chosen her as much as she had chosen it.

Sydnee's journey to teaching may seem a bit unorthodox but hers is a journey of discovery, faith, and dedication. From an aspiring agricultural professional to a devoted teacher, she proves that sometimes, the best journeys are the ones we never planned. And for her students, she hopes to inspire that same belief.

Welcome to teaching, Sydnee! We're so proud of your willingness to accept the call and serve the students of your community. Kingfisher and the KUE are lucky to have you!
